Computational Social Science Fellowship

The Center for Computational Social Science is soliciting applications for its 2017 fellows program. The program supports Stanford graduate students working on computationally intensive social science research. Applications are due by September 15, 2017.

- Learn more and apply[1]